

SALT LAKE DAILY HERALD

SUNDAY MORNING, SEPT. 5, 1880.

THE DAILY HERALD is published every morning, except on Sundays, at the office of the publisher, at the corner of Temple Street, near First South, Salt Lake City, by the HERALD PUBLISHING AND PRINTING COMPANY. Subscription price $10.00 per annum, postage included, in advance. Single copies, 5 cents. The WEEKLY HERALD is published every Wednesday and Saturday morning, at $4.00 a year; six months, $2.50; postage included. The WEEKLY HERALD is published every Thursday morning, at $2 a year; six months, $1.25; postage included. Package outside the U.S. and Canada, extra.

THE NEW COMPASS, it is said, will show that the popular belief that the bulk of government bonds is held by large capitalists and corporations is incorrect.

NOTWITHSTANDING THE efforts to prevent the traffic in church livings in England, it is said the business is increasing. One agent says the livings annually offered for sale are not less than 300 in number, while another says that fully 10 per cent. of all the livings in the church (numbering about 13,000) are sold or in some way bartered every year.

THE PHILADELPHIA courts do not believe the story that Dr. Buchanan, the bogus diploma man, suicided by jumping from a ferryboat into the river. An expert swimmer made an affidavit that he had been offered $50 to persuade the doctor in leaping from the boat. Yesterday, Buchanan's bonds, amounting to $12,000, were forfeited.

SOME TIME ago the republican newspapers were delighted over the quarrel in the democratic camp in New York. The organ editors fairly chuckled and did all they could to widen the breach. They said if the split could be made to continue republican success was certain, but if Tammany and anti-Tammany should happen to bridge the chasm and join hands New York would certainly be a democratic state this fall. It transpires that harmony has been restored among the democrats, and now it is amusing to observe how the radicals are still claiming the state. The Times and Herald both imply that New York is still doubtful, notwithstanding the joining of hands by the Kelly and Tilden factions, and the former of those newspapers goes so far as to assume that the republicans will win. In 1876 Tilden's plurality was 32,742, out of a total vote of 1,016,532. As the democracy is more firmly united now than it was then, it is not likely that it is going to permit the enemy to win.

PRESIDENT HAYES, on his go-as-you-please tour, will reach the city, this afternoon, and remain until Monday, when he will proceed westward. Had Mr. Hayes thought proper to treat the municipality with courtesy and the respect that is due from the President of the United States to a community of citizens of the republic, his reception would have been much different from what it will be. The masses of the people feel that they have been grossly insulted by Mr. Hayes, who has repelled them, and said as plainly as he could without being vulgar that he wants nothing to do with them. The newspaper organ in this city, which speaks for the Governor and assumes to do so for the President, (its editor being a member of the committee by whom the President has chosen to be received) also says that neither Mr. Hayes nor the Governor can associate with nor recognize the people of Salt Lake except as "foreigners," "aliens," and "law breakers." Because of this rejection by the President of respectful courtesies tendered on the part of the people, and the further authorized announcements through the Tribune that Mr. Hayes and Governor Murray (whose guest the President will be) cannot, without compromising themselves, accept any local attention by the residents of Salt Lake, the feeling on the part of the great majority is to let Hayes severely alone, and thus show that they know when they are insulted, and are not disposed to fawn about the man who says he is too good for their company. Mr. Hayes' welcome will not be like the enthusiastic reception that greeted General Grant five years ago, when he, like the former, visited this city. Then the multitude came forth voluntarily, and less from curiosity than an inclination to heartily welcome the President of the republic. Grant had not said to them "I want nothing to do with you," and he was not above recognizing citizens of the United States in Utah as well as in Ohio or elsewhere. The shouts that greeted him were full of honest enthusiasm, and the thousands who lined the streets from the depot to the hotel, and afterwards crowded around him whenever the opportunity was given, wanted to manifest their respect for the office and the officer. After what has occurred it will not be so with President Hayes. A crowd may receive him, but it will be composed chiefly of the curious rather than the interested. There will be a want of enthusiasm, as well as lack of numbers, and the entire absence of everything like an official reception cannot fail to be observed. In avoiding Mr. Hayes and taking no part in the public proceedings attending his visit the people will mean no disrespect to the high office which he holds. There is no place in the Union where the presidential office is held in higher regard than here, as there is no place where the people have more cause to respect the office and to manifest regard for the occupant. In refraining from participation in the ceremonies, people only show self-respect, and a desire to avoid being twice snubbed and repelled in their civil and appropriate render of customary courtesies.

IT HAS been remarked that the health of Don Cameron does not improve as rapidly as was expected and promised a few weeks ago. The Pennsylvania senator once crawled out of the retirement into which he went at the close of the Chicago convention, and gave his party some hope that he would bury his grievances, and help Garfield pull through; but the campaign progress while the wily Don remains quiet, nursing the sore that he got when he, Conkling and Logan were squatted upon in Chicago. Nor is Conkling entering into the campaign with any degree of "suddenness." Every few days the announcement is made that the distinguished New York senator will take the stump for Garfield, but somehow these announcements all seem to be without authority from him, or foundation, in fact. They are probably put forth to encourage the weak-kneed and keep up the flagging spirits of the lesser lights, who are looking upon success as something very doubtful. It is plain to all that the hearts of the stalwart republicans are not in the contest, and it looks as if they would welcome the defeat of the party candidate.

SEVERAL MONTHS have passed since an attempt was made on the life of the Car, but with the approach of winter the old pastime has been renewed. Some king killers (militants) have been detected in the work of digging a tunnel under a railway over which the Emperor of Russia was expected to pass, the evident purpose being a repetition of the Moscow blow-up of last year. Now that the king-killing industry is being revived we may expect the telegrams to bring us frequent accounts of schemes and attempts to put the Car out of the way, with occasional stories of assaults upon other "crowned heads of Europe."

ARKANSAS WILL elect state officers to-morrow (6th) and vote upon a proposed amendment to the constitution of the state forbidding the imposition of any tax or the making of any appropriation to pay the state railroad and levee bonds. The election of representatives in Congress will not be held until November 2. The Vermont election will be held on Tuesday (7th) when state officers, representatives in Congress, and the legislature will be chosen. The legislature will elect a United States senator to succeed Judge Edmunds. Of course the democrats will carry Arkansas and the republicans Vermont.

ALTHOUGH IDLENESS is frequently fatal to persons of great mental or physical energy, some workmen still find their term of existence very short on account of the deadly nature of their employment. The average life of a Sheffield fork-grinder is only 29 years, but that of the dry-grinder of sickles is 38 years. For every 70,451 tons of coal dug up in Prussia the life of a miner is sacrificed; and in England there is one life lost for every 59,419 tons raised to the surface.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

Road Agents.
Louisville, Ky., 4.—Great excitement exists at Cove City and the Mammoth Cave because the two stages plying between the towns were riddled and their passengers robbed of about $1,300, by two men on horseback and heavily armed. The robbery occurred last night.

A Good Horse.
Chicago, 4.—The horse proved the victor in the Hippo-Anthrope race to night. O'Leary rode his horse "Thought," thirty miles in three hours, seven minutes and thirty seconds, while the three runners McLeary, the Scotch champion, C. Price, the English champion, and White Eagle, the Indian champion, who, relieving each other every ten miles, made the total distance in three hours twenty-three minutes, and five seconds.

Indian Small Pox Victims.
Ottawa, 4.—Reports from upper Galenese state that the Indians at the Depot are still in a deplorable condition and dying in large numbers from the small pox. The fatal bands have been hovering about the wilderness ever since they left the village. The past week, traveling in small parties, one by one they fell victims to the terrible disease, and are immediately abandoned by the rest of the party and are left to die of starvation, if not of disease. A tribe of these natives can easily be followed by the dead bodies lying exposed at short distances along the line.

AYOUB'S DEFEAT.

London, 4.—General Roberts telegraphed at 6 o'clock on the evening of the 1st inst., that his army has been defeated and dispersed; it is hoped with but slight loss on our side. One British regiment had three officers killed and six wounded, and eighteen men killed and fifty-seven wounded. The loss of native troops on our side is not known but it is believed not to be excessive. Ayoub Khan's camp was captured. The body of Lieutenant McLaine was found in the camp and appearances indicate that he had been recently murdered.

A dispatch from Candahar, on the 21st ult., mentioned that Lieutenant McLaine, missing since the battle of Kooki Nakhud, was a prisoner in Ayoub's hands and well treated.

New York, 4.—A dispatch from London, supplementing the above, says: Ayoub's camp was captured and two lost guns of the royal horse artillery, taken by Ayoub at the defeat of General Burrows, were recovered and several wheeled guns of various calibers captured. General Roberts' attack upon their camp was evidently a surprise to the Afghans, who apparently did not dream of being assaulted and defeated so easily in their stronghold. Lieutenant McLaine had manifestly been retained as a prisoner until Ayoub realized the certainty of his defeat, when he was murdered him. The Afghan force was disintegrated and fled in different directions, although Ayoub and the main body are supposed to have fled toward Herat. Among the casualties on Wednesday were: Killed—Captain Stratton, Lieutenant Colonel Brownlow, Captain Frow, and eighteen men. Wounded—Colonel Battye, Major States and fifty-seven men were wounded.

THE VERA CRUZ.

Particulars of the Wreck and Storm.

Sickening Dismal and Terrible Loss of Life.

New York, 4.—The Tribune has the following: Seaman Talbot gives the following story of the wreck of the steamer City of Vera Cruz, about thirty miles off the coast of Mexico. The ship was loaded with coal and ship heavy seas and water was found in the hold. As fast as we could clear her she was filled by another sea. Everything was in a panic. The life boats were cut loose ready for action and all hands supplied with life preservers. At daylight on Sunday the boats were lowered and manned. They no sooner got their cargo than they were overturned and smashed to pieces against the steamer. All hands being swept away or their lives dashed out against the vessel's sides. Boat after boat was dashed to pieces in the same manner until few passengers remained. The captain and officers lost their lives in one of the boats. Everything was in a perfect bedlam, people screaming and shrieking for help on all sides. The rescue was broken up in two, and after a few surges she foundered and went down, carrying with her all who were on board. When I arose to the surface I could see no more than pieces of drift stuff, and sometimes one or two men. The women made no effort to save themselves. A mother and daughter were clasped in each other's arms during the gale, and they came ashore that way, dazed and blind. From that time until 4 in the afternoon I could see occasionally one or two men as they rose upon the crest of a wave. It was useless to try to hold on to anything, as the sea would tear it from your grasp and drive you two or three fathoms under the surface, and when regaining it you would have to grasp something else. I was compelled to dive or dodge away from pieces of drift stuff which would have killed me, if I were not so weak. After 4 I saw no one. The last time I saw General Tarbot alive he was with Mr. Owen, who was saved with us. I saw General Tarbot again dead at Port Orange, where he became ashore in response to a boy found him and dragged him up as far as he could and ran for assistance. When they got back he was dead. The bruises on his head indicate that he was struck by drift stuff and stunned. One of our number swam from the wreck without the aid of a life preserver. He was entirely nude, and came ashore first. We are all more or less bruised from the striking and building of the sea and drift wood. The body of a young man has come ashore at Matanzas. It had only a shirt and drawers on. A few miles further south the body of an old man, who appears to have been about 55 or 60 years old, was washed ashore, together with those of an elderly lady and a young girl and child.

It will gratify the friends of the drowned passengers and crew to know that letters have been found and will be retained until further inquiry is made respecting them. Many trunks have come ashore and been rifled. It is deemed unfortunate that there is no saving station on the coast to protect wrecked property and prevent it from being lost or stolen. No portion of the wreck has come ashore, except a sofa covered with red plush and some pieces of furniture. The saved passengers, as far as can be learned, are A. K. Owen, of Chester, Pennsylvania, a civil engineer employed by the authorities of Mexico; J. A. Garcia, a Cuban, of Havana, 27 years of age; and two passengers whose names could not be learned. Two who were to arrive at St. Augustine to-day. Besides these passengers were a young lady, an old lady and three men, whose names could not be learned. The officers and crew saved, as far as known, are Charles Brandenburg, quartermaster, aged 35; Thos. Drugg, fourth assistant engineer, aged 23, who resides in New York City; John Greenfield, boatswain; Jas. H. Kelly, seaman, of New York, aged 23; Charles Smith, second assistant engineer, Baltimore, aged about 40. The Mason Talbot, seaman, it is believed, is the one seaman who at first refused to give his name.

THE PREGRINATING PRESIDENT.

He Approaches Salt Lake, Gives Receptions and Holds Forth in Speeches.

Cheyenne, 4.—President Hayes and party arrived at 10:45 on a special train. A national salute of thirty-eight guns was fired—once for each state in the Union, over half the population was present at the depot and greeted the party with deafening cheers. Mayor Addams tendered the President the hospitality of the city in a few remarks. The President responded, thanking the people for the hearty reception. He said he had determined upon a trace continental trip eighteen months ago, General Sherman having shown him that he could make the trip in sixty days, but that Congress had interfered. They determined to accomplish the journey this year; so three months ago they caused the fact to be advertised that they would take such a trip as to draw the fire of criticism, if any could be made. The result, he said, was that not a single newspaper, nor a single man uttered a word of adverse criticism. He said that he was open for information about the great west and would learn by observation and inquiry the needs of the west, that would lead him to assist, if possible, in its further development. He said he had learned valuable facts in connection with the business of cattle raising. He paid a glowing tribute to the people who had the hardihood and enterprise to populate the wild waste of the dreary plains and create a wealth apparently out of nothing. Secretary of War Ramsey, and General Sherman also made happy speeches. Mrs. Hayes was called out by the vast crowd and bowed her acknowledgments. Miss Sherman was also called for and she not being present, General Sherman introduced his daughter Rachel. Amid cheers the party drove out to Fort Russell and held a reception at the residence of Major Wism. On the return to the depot the President and wife held another reception, and citizens called en masse. Mrs. Hayes won the hearts of the people by her kindly courtesy and demeanor, and was greeted by special cheers while the train pulled out of the depot for the west. The next reception of the party will be at Evanston, Wyoming. Cheyenne was properly decorated with flags and bunting. At the depot a large platform was erected, on which the speakers stood. The reception was arranged by citizens, assisted by the military stationed at Fort Russell and Camp Crockett.

MINING PATENTS.—Full sets of blanks for application for Mining Patents—approved forms—to be had at the HERALD Office.

FOREIGN.

London, 4.—The Times, commenting on Foster's attack on the House of Lords, which that journal severely criticizes, and upon Parnell's, Dillon's and O'Connor's motions, and the House's reply, said: "When things like these occur and recur, it is time for the session to come to an end, and we rejoice to think there is now fairly certain prospect of its progress on Tuesday next."

The House of Lords passed the hare and rabbit bill as agreed to in the House of Commons yesterday. During the session Lord Redcliffe referred to the speech of Foster, chief secretary for Ireland, in the House of Commons, yesterday, assailing the House of Lords. Lord Granville, foreign secretary, said Foster had informed him he was only expressing his own opinion, and did not assume to express the opinion of government or intend to commit them to any course of action.

Gladsstone entered the House of Commons this afternoon, the first time since his sickness, and was received with tremendous cheers. In the House of Commons this evening James O'Connell, liberal member for Edinburgh, made a vehement attack upon the policy of government and remonstrated with government for withholding information. Sir Charles Dilke, under foreign secretary, protested against O'Connell's impassioned speech, and declared his association with England proposed to force the dardanelles and bombard Constantinople.

The appropriation act passed its third reading, and afterwards its first reading in the House of Lords. The House of Lords voted again on Monday, and the House of Commons on Tuesday, when Parliament will be prorogued.

Constantinople, 4.—The acting British consul at Philadelphia, Mr. A. K. Owen, governor-general of Romania, which is of a revolutionary character, and under pretext of the charitable object of promoting education, contemplated dispatching a revolutionary agent with arms and ammunition into Macedonia. Aliko, replying, denied the revolutionary character of society. Advice from the Scotch iron manufacturing districts as to the strike is likely to continue. Only thirty-two furnaces are in blast. The increase in stocks for August is 13,000 tons. A dispatch from Kuirraa Sinda says the report of General Roberts' victory over Ayoub Khan has been received here. He says he captured 10,000 men. The statement is regarded as impossible.

Russian papers contain an account of the explosion of a 1,000-ton flat-top of the Lusitania, on its way from Baku, at Tauris, on the Volga. It is believed thirty persons perished. Workmen entered the reservoir with naked light. The French minister has presented a note to the Porte, urging that measures be taken to stop the preparations which, he says, the Albanians are making for an attack on Serbian territory, and for which he holds the Porte responsible. The Albanians are reported in great force between Duligno and Antivari.

Boston Wool.

Boston, 4.—The wool market is dull and sales to any extent can only be made at lower prices. Notwithstanding the fact that sales the past week have reached nearly 150,000 pounds, the demand has not been in general one. A firm sold about one-third of the entire amount, while, with others, business was comparatively light. Michigan and Ohio fleeces declined fully 10 per pound, and on California and other wools concessions have also been made. Dealers generally, however, are indifferent about selling. Combing and delaine wools remain unchanged, but sales are quite small, the stock being light. Pulled wools continue quiet. In foreign wool there was no movement of consequence. Territory, 14c @ 33; Georgia 35; unwashed and unmerchantable, 25 @ 34.

PROPOSALS FOR BEEF.

FORT HALL INDIAN AGENCY,
BOSS FORK, IDAHO.

September 2d, 1880.

SEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE received at this office until 10 o'clock a.m. September 23d, 1880, for the delivery, under contract, of one hundred and eighty thousand (180,000) pounds beef cattle on the hoof, five hundred thousand (500,000) to be delivered at this Agency, and one hundred and eighty thousand (180,000) at the Lemhi Agency, Lemhi County, Idaho. Good healthy, merchantable steers and cows (no bulls or stags), not over seven years of age, at such times and in such quantities as may be required during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1881. The average gross weight of each delivery from May 1st to December 1st to be not less than 550 pounds, and from December 1st to May 1st not less than 580 pounds. All cattle to be killed without food or water for twelve hours preceding each delivery. A deduction of twenty per centum to be made for cows.

The right is reserved to increase or diminish the above quantity twenty-five (25) per centum, and to reject any or all bids.

Proposals for any portion of the above amount of beef cattle, from fifty thousand (50,000) pounds upwards, to be delivered at times specified in the bids, will also be received and opened at the time and place above mentioned.

All bids must be accompanied with a certified check upon some United States Depository, payable to the order of the Indian Agent, for at least five (5) per centum of the amount of the proposed purchase.

Envelopes should be endorsed "Proposals for Beef Cattle," and will be opened at the hour above designated in the presence of interested parties.

Further information will be furnished upon application to the office.

The Bids for the Fort Hall and Lemhi Agency may be made separately or jointly; the advertisement for proposals to be opened on the 16th instant is hereby recorded.
